General Information
The Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics (MLLL) plays a key role in bringing the world to OU and OU to the world. Thus, MLLL is dedicated to upholding OU’s mission of excellence through research and teaching in the humanities.

The MLLL faculty teaches fundamental linguistic skills and provides the intellectual training to contextualize cross-cultural experiences. We also emphasize the significance of literary and cultural traditions, as developed through history, for human self-understanding. At the graduate level, master’s and doctoral students combine advanced courses in literature, culture, theory, and methodology with supervised pre-professional training. Consequently, our programs are designed to prepare the next generation of researchers, teachers, and professionals, whose expertise builds upon modern languages, literatures, and cultures.

MLLL is home to scholars in literature, cultural studies, film, second language acquisition, and linguistics. Our faculty produces and disseminates knowledge in the humanities and advances critical humanistic research in international fields through the publication of numerous books and articles, active engagement in national and international professional organizations, and participation in conferences across the continents. The faculty commitment to research is intimately connected with our teaching, and subsequently, we incorporate the latest innovations in our courses. Hence, MLLL is resolutely committed to OU’s mission to lead in research.

Through our engagement with critical inquiry, teaching, and service to the community, the Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics strives to fulfill OU’s primary missions to achieve excellence and to value world cultures.

Programs & Facilities

Programs for Academic Excellence

Students are encouraged to study abroad as an enhancement to their degree programs. Summer or semester and year-long exchange programs in South America, Europe, Asia, and Africa are available to all students.

Special Facilities
The Language Learning Center is a state-of-the-art computer facility that provides technology, resources, and an engaging environment in which students, faculty, instructors, and visitors are supported in their language acquisition pursuits. The Learning Center boasts a large library of digitized listening files, web activities, language-learning software, and video/DVD materials. Listening materials and web activities are available to students in the Learning Center and via the remote connection.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FINANCIAL AID

The Department of Modern Languages, Literatures, and Linguistics offers a variety of funding opportunities to students who choose to major or minor in one or more modern languages. MLLL students apply for all department scholarships online through the CASH website at scholarships.ou.edu.

Graduate assistantships are available through the department. All graduate assistants are required to enroll in MLLL 4813 during their first semester. In addition, graduate assistants are required to enroll in a minimum of six credit hours of graduate-level courses per semester.

Undergraduate Study

Bachelor of Arts Degree

The department offers the Bachelor of Arts degree with majors in Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, and Linguistics. Beginning language courses do not count toward the major. In the second year, students focus on improving the basic skills of speaking, understanding, reading, and writing while gaining some exposure to the culture and the literature of the language. The third year generally focuses on improving conversation skills and pronunciation, acquiring a stronger understanding of the grammatical rules of the language, and reading a limited number of complete literary works. In the senior year, majors study civilization and literature from its origins to the modern era.

The department also offers Minors in Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Hebrew, Italian, Japanese, Linguistics, Portuguese, Russian, and Spanish.
